Suzanne F. Stevens is a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) who brings 20 years of experience invigorating organizations across five continents. She delivers an educational experience that will inspire, challenge, and transform the audience's perspectives and actions on how to contribute to the community individually and collaboratively.

As an avid adventure traveler and accomplished business leader, Suzanne knows something about taking risks. After 15 years of leading an internationally acclaimed training company, focused on leadership, persuasive presentation, sales, and collaborative communication skills, Suzanne and her husband did something bold; they sold all of their worldly belongings and set off to interview pioneering conscious-contributors in 19 countries and counting.

We are on a cusp of a global shift, where organizations that are profit-driven are becoming purpose-inspired. And organizations that are purpose-inspired, should consider being profit-driven. Because generations give differently, and the lines are blurring between work and life —colleagues, collaborators, and clients want to connect to organizations were they have well-aligned values, and they contribute to causes they care about. Suzanne shares strategies on how people and organizations can make their contribution count—sustainably.

Suzanne is the founder of YouMeWe Group, a social enterprise, foundation, movement, web-TV program, mindset, and a book. Our mission is to inspire audiences to maximize their personal and collective meaning at work, and beyond, with consistent conscious-contributions™ to the community and beyond.
