Keynote Description:

Invest in the change you want to see in the world:

How feminine energy is leading social transformation

What if...

...societies practiced inclusivity, and feminine energy was embraced as the catalyst to transform communities? What if women embraced and celebrated the power in their hands?

How would businesses, politics, health services, and education evolve?

From Suzanne's extensive interviews with women leaders in twenty-one countries, she will share stories of how women exercising conscious-contribution practices are making a profound change in their communities, countries, and beyond. These conscious-contributors may have been motivated by circumstance, however, the learning is how she harnessed her personal power, expanded knowledge, and exhibited exceptional perseverance to make a social or environmental impact.

What will the audience experience during this keynote?

In this inspiring keynote, the audience will feel full of possibilities as they hear stories of women internationally who chose the path less travelled and created profound social conscious impact. Stories will expose emerging characteristics that all these conscious-contributors exhibit. The audience will be motivated to contemplate how to embrace these qualities and incorporate them into their own life and leadership.
